

The above data has been taken from top 25 sites of alexa.com and we can observe from the graph that local dns performs the best amongst the three. Some of the websites don't have any difference amongst the three but some other sites have a large difference in the performance amongst that three. For a few cases it is observed that my dns outperforms the google dns.